Teacher Appreciation Week

Next week we celebrate the special role teachers play in our lives. Teachers create lesson plans but also a sense of safety and belonging for their students. They get up early to make it work, and they stay up late with worry. They reach out to students who are falling behind and often reach into their own pockets to provide special treats and decorate their classrooms. An education degree is not required to be a teacher; anyone with a caring heart and a desire to help others learn is a teacher. Be sure to reach out to that special someone next week and tell them how much he/she is appreciated!
